

Just another day

Music & lyrics Phil Walton © 2006

Where did she go?
The girl I used to know?
The girl who laughed at me
I'm glad she set me free.

As time goes by
You learn the reason why
The way that things go wrong
And why you just don't get along

Harmony is what you seek
You look at her
But you cannot speak
Then she smiles,
You look away
You run away till another day

Just another day
In the same old way.
Just another day
Seems like yesterday

Why do I have these feelings for her?
Feelings that she will never return
What is the point?
It's just getting me down
I may as well end up acting the clown

She's here again
I ask her to be my friend
But she just rejects me
O God please set me free

Why do I try to love her anew?
She takes my heart
And breaks it in two
Can't I forget her?
And find a new face
Rather than end up
With egg on my face

Here's someone new
I hope she'll see me through
It seems she has interest in me

I hope she can set me free.

Harmony is what you seek
You look at her
But you cannot speak
Then she smiles,
You melt away
You cannot wait
For another day

She came to me
And right from the start
I knew that
She had stolen my heart
What an embrace
I'm just floating on air
What of the past?
Well, I just don't care.

Not another day
In the old, old way
It's a brand new day
And it's here to stay.
